There will be complimentary vans to chauffeur our guests. Refreshments will be served. Holiday music will be everywhere. As a special feature this year, three neighborhood artists and craftspeople will exhibit their latest work. Look for the galleries featuring Chris Yarborough, Ron Propst and Billy McClain. Those folks in the West End are talented too!

Help out your neighbors with the tour!

Can you drive a van? - call Hoppy Elliot at 723-6675.

Can you bake refreshments? - call Martha Harper at 722-2641.

Can you help deliver signs and luminaries? - call Bill Wise at 761-0906.

Can you sell tickets? - call Liz Gilliam at 723-2242.

Can you help host? - call Barbara Callahan at 723-2655.

BOARD MEETING REPORT

The Board met on November 5th at the Wells-Sugg's home. The absence of Warren and Becky Sparrow was noted and excused. It was assumed that they were resting from the early a.m. victory in the District Attorney election. (Editorial Comment: Yeah! Warren! Congratulations.)

Chris Chapman passed on some good news from the local transit authority. By the end of 1987, new trolley-like buses will replace the large city buses on the West End Trolley route. These are being specially designed to mimic turn-of-the-century vehicles.

The Historic District Nomination has been blessed by Raleigh historians and sent on to Washington .

Chris and Lee Ann Pegram of the City-County Planning Board reported on a conference they attended recently on historic districts in early 20th Century neighborhoods. The West End can be a pacesetter in the State as this period is being recognized for its culture and historic significance.

Our next step is to begin drafting guidelines for a local appearance commission or local district. Glenn Gravlee heads this committee. They're discussing what the neighborhood should and should not have regulated. Call Chris at 723-7620 if you would like to join the committee.

More good news for the neighborhood - Brunson School is building a new playground. This will offer junior West Enders another place for recreation.
