WEA May Meeting Minutes

The stalwart few met on May 2nd at the Tise Mansion for our monthly meeting of the West End Neighborhood Association. Steve Joiner called the meeting to order noting that "when spring arrives, folks are out and about either gardening or enjoying the local patios." Fourth Street Filling Station and the Zevely House come to mind. There will be no WEA scheduled meetings in July or August. Here are a few snippets from the meeting;

Much to do about December. Stephanie Abdon talked about the Home Tour scheduled for December 10th. We need Houses! If you are interested in showcasing your home, please contact Stephanie or Steve Joiner. We will also have a "Doors of the West End" decoration contest. Jack Smith will role out the specifics in a future WEA meeting.

What is a Crime Watch? Can a Neighborhood Watch group lessen the need for law enforcement officials? It may help reduce crime in West End, but a crime watch can't replace your local law enforcement agency. It is needed to respond quickly to problems, make arrests and help prevent crime. Will people who join be "taking the law into their own hands?" No. The goal is to work with law enforcement officials. Watch members are partners with the Winston-Salem Police Department. Captain Bill Cobb will help us develop a Crime Watch effort in West End.

West End will have a new website and one of our own Board members, David Elam, has agreed to help make it happen. Our site capacity is being expanded to 50 gigabits and David is currently soliciting input on what value the website should provide.

Please remember, the Board meetings are open to West End members and are held the third Tuesday of each month, at 7:00 p.m. 1224 Glade Street. – Rick Pender, Secretary WEA

President's Message

Summer's Here and the Time is Ripe!

Though I'm often known to go off-topic, if not off the reservation sometimes in these columns, most of the time it's at least somewhat related to the mission of the West End Association and its commitment to the preservation and advocacy of the West End Historic District. And this time is no different, except that it is. This time I'm speaking to another kind of community cooperation, the food kind, as lately exemplified by Cindy Hinshaw's Sanders Ridge Farm's efforts to reach out to Westenders to enroll in her unique approach to forging (or is it foraging?) a new link into the Winston Salem food chain. The West End Organic Food Guild as she has coined it is truly something special. A few intrepid souls or would-be Vegans have embraced her delivery of freshly grown vegetables right to the neighborhood, more precisely to Bud & Barbara Goldsmith's front porch (1000 West End Blvd) in yet another variation on the West End being Winston Salem's front porch. Those of you who have signed on for the Summer growing season are not only going to get healthy (Eat your vegetables, Stevie!) but are also going to be amazed at the variety of exotic vegetables that your weekly milk crate's worth of goodies will have in store for you. And the point is they by and large will not be found in the store, not any store, not even Whole Paycheck's organic section. Stuff like: Lacinato Kale, Red Sails Lettuce, Swiss Chard, Baby Bok Choi, Broccolli Raab, Mizuna! Heck, I thought Mizuna was some far-off Mexican Indian tribe! For a meat and potatoes guy like me, (well maybe a fish and pasta guy is more me) these culinary delights have made our dinners lately real voyages of discovery. I'm a convert and you'll be too if you give it a try. Check it out at <http://www.sandersridge.com>. You'll even find recipes for the gastronomically challenged. Happy Eating!
